Urge Voters To Act For Better Roads

Citizens Committee States Reasons for Need of Strong Interest

Good roads in the lakes region are an asset to Antioch and the surrounding territory in helping to draw visitors, the Citizens' Committee for Better Roads points out in a circular issued this week, urging a large vote in the special election to be held here Monday, November 6.

The election is being held at the request of Antioch township property owners, who recently presented a petition to township officials for that purpose.

The approval of voters is being sought for the authorization of an annual tax levy of 30 cents on the $100 valuation of all taxable property in the township, including railroads, for the purpose of constructing or improving and maintaining certain of the township's principal, but still unimproved highways. The levy is scheduled to run for five years, after which time the roads will be in such condition that it will be possible to maintain them out of the regular township road fund.

Funds Not Sufficient

Property devaluations and unpaid taxes have cut the money available for road improvement and maintenance almost in half during the past few years, and heavy traffic on roads near the lakes has made it impossible to keep them in good condition without the expenditure of additional funds.

The circular issued by the Citizens' committee cites the following reasons in support of the movement:

"For the greater convenience of residents and vacationists in the resort region—the following roads should be improved:

"Sylvan Beach, West Channel Lake, Tiffany, Shady Nook, Wildwood, Beach Grove, Queen of the West, Herman, and Indian Point Roads."

"These roads are NOT under county, state or federal supervision and receive no aid from outside the township. It's up to the property owners to see that they are improved and kept in condition."

"All of these roads lead to or are adjacent to the Chain O' Lakes. Except for small improvements done by property owners along the roads there has been no extensive improvements made for many years, as present township funds supply barely enough money to enable the highway commissioner to do maintenance work only. As a result of heavy traffic these roads many times have been in a dangerous condition for auto travel, due to dust and loose gravel."

A "Paying" Investment

"It is a known fact that residents of the lake communities pay over 60 per cent of the township's tax bill, and that over 60 per cent of the taxes go for the maintenance of local schools from which they derive no benefit whatever as their children attend Chicago schools. However, these lake residents would derive great benefit from the proposed road improvement and it's only fair that the permanent residents here reciprocate in this manner."

"The Chain O' Lakes has long been regarded as the beauty spot of Illinois, so let's have our highways in keeping with this idea. While the beautification feature is commendable, it is also pointed out that the improvement is bound to prove a good investment resulting in better business in the region to say nothing of the enhancement of property values that would result."

Library Board Calls Attention to Book Week

Twenty-two new books ordered for the Antioch Township library were expected today or tomorrow, it was announced this morning by Mrs. W. W. Ward, chairman of the book committee of the township library board.

In connection with National Book Week, being celebrated this week, Mrs. Ward also stated that persons interested in the latest books, both fiction and nonfiction, will find many of them in the library here.

Hot Tar Causes $500 Fire Loss

Cleaning Rags Result in Another Fire, at David Pullen House

Losses were set at about $500 in a fire that damaged a garage and chauffeur's quarters on the Kumpfer estate at Shady Nook, Lake Marie, Sunday. Two companies of the Antioch fire department were called to the garage at 12:50 noon. The firemen found the blaze well underway by the time they arrived, and extinguished it.

The building was valued at about $750 and the contents, some of which were saved, at about $100.

A pail of tar which had been placed on a stove to warm, before being used for repairs on the roof, became ignited and set fire to the building, it was reported.

Polishing rags kept in a "lean-to" off the main building were blamed for a fire that caused $5 damage at the David Pullen residence on North Main street Saturday at 1:10. The building is tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ellis.

Lake Villa Fire Department Is Granted Charter

Incorporated as "Non-Profit Organization" Under State Grant

A state charter granted to the Lake Villa volunteer fire department was being recorded today by County Recorder Howard L. Scott.

The charter was granted by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, to the department as "a non-profit corporation." The Lake Villa department, now in its sixth year, is one of the first fire-fighting organizations in the state to receive an Illinois charter of that type.

Incorporators include Erwin Barnstable, chief of the Lake Villa firemen, Frank Slazes, Fred Hamlin, Al Kapple and William Peterson. The incorporators will make up the board of trustees for the first year.

The objects of the department are to include the association of civic-minded citizens in Lake Villa interested in preventing and extinguishing fires; to obtain fire fighting equipment and to establish a life saving corps at the lakes.

Vandals Create Halloween Havoc

Break Lock on Methodist Church Door; Tip Over Rural Mailboxes

Some damages were reported on Wednesday morning when the town picked itself up and dusted itself off after the Halloween merry-making.

Besides the routine window soaps, which owners of business establishments along Main street were busy taking care of with water and brushes early in the morning, there were several cases in which somewhat more serious havoc was caused by youthful pranksters.

The lock on the door of the Methodist church was broken and removed, apparently by someone who felt that his soul was in tune with the writer of the song who declaimed, "I want to ring bells!" for that is what the pranksters did after gaining access to the building.

Fourteen mailboxes along rural routes were tipped over, a check-up at the post office showed.

Various other minor damages were also announced.

Start Suits in County Over Occupational Tax

Thirty-two suits, involving $32,246.82, were filed in Circuit court today by the state department of finance against Lake county retailers who, it is charged, have failed to pay the full amount of retailers' occupation tax due the state. These suits resulted from the department's current drive against tax violators in the county. No Antioch concerns are included in the list. Those involved are situated mainly in Waukegan and North Chicago with a few in Highland and Zion, and one each in Lake Forest, Mundelein, Gurnee and Ingleside.

Big Halloween Parade Features 200 Children

Young Folks Parade in Costume at Sixth Annual Jamboree

Spooks and witches, hobgoblins, and scarecrows paraded down Main street Tuesday evening as the sixth annual Halloween jamboree for Antioch children got underway.

The costumes this year were unusually good, the committee in charge of the judging conducted at the Antioch theatre agreed. The number of children taking part, 200 in all, was also larger than usual.

Following the custom of other years, the parade started from the Antioch grade school at about 6:30 o'clock and progressed down Main street to the Antioch theatre.

Adults Enjoy It, Too

Many adults as well as young folks were present to watch the judging, and the theatre was filled to capacity. Mrs. H. H. Perry, Mrs. Don Gibbs and Joseph Panowski were charged with the task of selecting from among the bewildering array of grotesque and clever outfits the three winners in each of the 18 classes into which the contestants were grouped.

Besides the prizes, a bag of candy and other gifts were presented to each of the children who took part. The prizes were supplied by the Antioch Lions club. The schools, merchants of the town, Antioch News and Antioch theatre joined in sponsoring the jubilee.

See Movie Afterward

After the costume judging, the young folks were guests of Manager Fred B. Swanson at a showing of "Susannah of the Mounties," starring Shirley Temple.

Members of the fire department cooperated in the staging of the jamboree and regulated traffic during the parade.

Chicago Cartoonist to Address Youth Gathering

Vaughn R. Shoemaker, cartoonist of The Chicago Daily News, winner of the Pulitzer prize in 1937, will be the principal speaker at a youth rally to be held at Zion Tuesday, Nov. 7, at 7:45 p. m. The rally is to be sponsored by the Mahon Memorial class of young men of that community. It will be held in the gymnasium of the new Zion-Benton high school in Zion, which is situated two blocks south of Route 173 and four blocks west of Sheridan rd.

Pupils of the high school and members of young people's organizations in Antioch and vicinity are being invited to attend. Adults are also welcome. There is no admission charge and a free-will offering will be taken to cover expenses.

Besides Mr. Shoemaker, who will illustrate his lecture with drawings that will be flashed upon the screen, there will be special music, featuring Mayor Richard F. Hire, concert violinist, of Zion; LaVern Christianson, noted Chicago pianist; a saxophone quartet; marimba trio; male quartet and trumpet solo.

Chicago Man Takes Over Palace Property

Complete dining room service featuring good food and your favorite beverages at the New Antioch Inn is announced this week by Peter Tass, who took charge of the place recently under a lease with a purchase option. Located a mile south of Antioch on Highway 54, the Inn was a part of the old Antioch Palace property which before its burning several years ago was a popular sports and amusement center. After the burning of the main building the large residence was remodeled and has been run as a tavern by various proprietors during the past several years.

Mr. Tass comes from Chicago where he has had 32 years experience in the tavern and catering business. He has named his place here the "New Antioch Inn," and he invites the patronage of the public.

Local Banking Is a Local Job

Washington, D. C.—The banking act of 1935 placed the control over bank credit in the hands of the Federal Government. Bank examiners often exercised too broad authority and imposed in many cases severe restrictions upon the officers and directors of national banks. In many instances small business men have lost their credit because examiners assumed that they were smarter than the officers of the banks who knew all about the personal and business affairs of customers.

That is why some of the best authorities upon the subject have come to believe that rigid Federal control over the banks has been carried too far. It is very questionable whether the banking system has been made permanently secure notwithstanding the insurance of depositors. It has unnecessarily and wrongfully increased the difficulties of countless numbers of small business men throughout the country.

Everybody knows that the banking business has not always been successful in the past, and that was the excuse for running the banks through the wringer in 1933. After the juice had all been squeezed out of the banks the system was immersed in centralized control from Washington.

The existing centralized control is just about as full of holes as other Federalisms. The fact cannot be ignored that the human element is recognized every time a bank selects its staff. The best business men and the best citizens are chosen to administer and safeguard the money and credit for the community.

The old-fashioned notion grows that local banking is a local job, and that while it is proper and correct to lay down definite laws and rules to carry it on, that there is no reason to think that the details of a community are better understood by officials in Washington than in the territory where the bank serves.

War

There is only one way by which America can get into the European war, and that is by wading in. Wading is a deliberate process beginning with a first step.

Taking the first step is the most important act in getting into war. Supplying one group of combatants with armament and ammunition to the disadvantage of the other is obviously unneutral.

Yet so accustomed have the members of Congress gotten to viewing the Prodigal Son as the arch-economist of the ages, that when one of their number tells them lifting the embargo is a peace gesture, they listen back to Mr. Roosevelt's promise to find jobs for the ten million idle workers with whom he sympathized in 1932 and really imagine he has kept his pledge.

The United States has kept out of wars in Asia and Europe without lifting the embargo on arms and ammunition.

That fact justifies all the good things President Roosevelt has ever said about the act he now condemns.

The Legion and War

War brought the American Legion into existence, but the Legionnaires want no more of it—and they don't want to send their sons into the trenches. Note their protest, in their Chicago convention, against the belief that the United States "must inevitably become involved in the present European conflict"; their demand that the President and the Congress pursue a policy that "will prevent involvement," and their advocacy of a policy of neutrality and peace for their nation. It is instructive to find that men who know war are anything but belligerent.

Why not move New Year's day ahead of Christmas, so that we could make our good resolutions before buying all those presents?—Tampa Morning Tribune.

Allen gave the impressive ceremony which made them man and wife. RIGHTHOUSNESS IN THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 5:17-20, 34-35, 6:1-4.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect.—Matthew 5:48.

"Righteousness in the kingdom," the title of our lesson, properly relates its teaching to the kingdom of the Messiah which is to come on the earth, and to the condition which shall then prevail. At the same time we agree with Dr. James M. Gray that "it would be wrong to press this too far and to say that the Sermon on the Mount has no application whatever to the Christian church or the time in which we live; for God is the same through all dispensations and the underlying principles of His government never change."

Certainly it is true that if all of the men and all of the nations of the earth were on this Armistice Sunday true followers of Christ and ready to carry out the teachings of this lesson, there would no longer be any possibility of war. This means that the best peace propaganda is the sending of missionaries and teachers to all the earth to win men to Christ.

Our lesson should be studied and taught with great care lest we confuse morality with Christianity and make it appear that men are justified before God by their good works rather than by their faith in Christ.

I. Christ Fulfills the Law (5:17-20).

The law of God is eternal, never to be abrogated, never set aside. Christ Himself, although we might properly say that He was in reality the Law-giver and thus had power and authority over the law, indicated His purpose in coming to be that of giving the law its full meaning, not of destroying it. One could wish that those who profess to be His servants might have the same measure of regard for God's law. If they did, they obviously would not be so ready to ignore it, so quick to change it or explain it away, and for more ready to accept with their Master every "jot and tittle," that is, even the minutest detail of His Word.

Recognizing Christ as the fulfillment of the law should prepare one to manifest obedience to every moral precept through His grace and by His strength. Certainly it should not lead anyone to lawlessness or carelessness regarding details of the daily walk. Fellowship with the Saviour should be revealed in consistent living (v. 20).

II. Christ Explains the Law (5:34-35).

Look at verses 21 to 37. The spirit of murder is anger (vv. 21, 22). A lustful look is adultery (vv. 27-30), and it is better to be blind than to be guilty of it. Divorce is linked very plainly with adultery (vv. 31, 32). Swearing is forbidden (vv. 33-37). Thus Christ strips outward conformity to the law of its apparent virtue and reveals that with God it is the spirit that gives meaning to the act.

He goes on to make plain that God alone is wise enough to take vengeance, that we ought never to retaliate with evil for evil. Note that verse 39 probably refers to an insult rather than to physical violence; that in verse 40 it is a question of a difference of opinion in which the other man feels that he has a legal right to your coat; and that here, as in verses 41 and 42, it is not a matter of letting a wicked or scheming person defraud you of your rights or property, but rather of doing what is required of you in an ungrudging spirit and of being generous with others who are in need. In Christ we are to be like our heavenly Father and love our enemies (vv. 43-45).

III. Christ Illustrates the Law (6:1-4).

Possibly it would be more appropriate for us to say that Christ here illustrates the right and the wrong way of fulfilling the law. How very clear He makes it that the one who, while ostensibly doing the will of God, actually is seeking the recognition and glory of men has received his full reward, for men have applauded his act of generosity. The transaction is complete and God has nothing to do with it at all. On the other hand, the one who gives in the spirit of Christ, not wanting men to know of his faithful stewardship (v. 4), and in fact making no reckoning of it himself (v. 3), may be certain that he has a heavenly Father who takes careful account of the loving deeds of His children and who will reward him, both in this world and in the world to come.

Memories of Happy Days
Why is it that the memory of some days in the past, unmarked by any striking event, always come to us like the breath of spring? It may be that on those days, in reward for some forgotten act, God drew us close to Him, and that we absorbed something of His eternal peace and happiness.

Laboratory 'Ice-Age'

Forecast by Scientist

A laboratory-made "ice age" is coming soon and extremes of cold will be employed by science for many new human uses, Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize winner, predicts in a recent forecast.

The world-famous University of Chicago scientist has presented a general answer to the question: "What will the science of physics give to mankind tomorrow?"

Heat and electricity are the two most important forms of energy used by the people. Physicists are now exploring new fields of both heat and electrical energies.

On the one hand, there is the extremely high temperature of the sun and other stars, that man has not yet learned to reproduce artificially. The other extreme, not known in nature directly, is a result of laboratory experiments—unbelievably low temperatures hovering near the absolute zero.

Physicists have learned to produce new extremes in cold. Their important problem now is to discover uses for such cold," Dr. Compton says.

"Although we have not yet found industrial uses for these low temperatures, there is good reason to anticipate significant advances in this area."

Liquid helium, about 450 degrees below zero of Fahrenheit, is the coldest substance produced by science. Experiments are going on to lower the temperature still further, until it comes within 1-10,000ths of a degree above the absolute zero, which is 460 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

When treated with such cold, many metals and other substances change their properties.

Amateur Scientists Aid

In Important Research

The amateur scientist not only appears in the best-regulated families, he's liable to turn up anywhere, according to the American Philosophical society.

The society, using Philadelphia as a "test tube" in its study to determine the contribution ordinary persons can make to scientific research, reports that the amateur scientist is found in the average home here and in almost every occupation.

A preliminary survey, conducted by W. Stephen Thomas, working for the committee on education and participation in science, which is supervised by the philosophical society, disclosed that 200 amateur scientists enrolled for field trips of the Academy of Natural Sciences were engaged in 55 different occupations.

Forty per cent are in business offices, 20 per cent in technical trades, 10 per cent in the professions and the remaining 24 per cent are students, unemployed workers and housewives.

"Their hobbies were diverse and amusing," Thomas said. "A gardener indicated flowers, a mail carrier hiking and a tourist agent travel as their leisure time interests."

Local clubs are co-operating with Thomas in the committee's effort to spread scientific knowledge and help the amateur scientist.

Among these clubs are those for astronomers and telescope-makers, airplane and ship model designers, cosmic ray students, students of earth currents and radio, naturalists, mineralogists, botanists, entomologists and geologists.

The work of these diverse organizations is to be co-ordinated by the committee.

Cincinnati's "Forty Twos"

In the first half of the last century there was a club in Cincinnati called the Forty-Twos. It was thus named because, when organized, it so happened that each of the men in the membership was past forty-two and not yet forty-three years old. Although it was more or less social, it did help develop a literary taste in the city. The club met in the law office of Salmon P. Chase. The latter, in after years, became secretary of the treasury in President Lincoln's cabinet and was appointed chief justice by the President when Chief Justice Roger B. Taney died in 1864.

Bonnie Blue Flag

The Bonnie Blue flag was made of silk by the ladies of Jackson, Miss., and is said to have inspired the famous battle song of that name. The flag was presented to W. S. Barry, president of the convention that adopted the ordinance of secession in the house of representatives at Jackson, Miss., January 9, 1901. It had a white ground with magnolia trees in the center; a blue field in the upper left-hand corner with a star in the center. It was finished with a red border with red fringe at the extremity of the flag.

American Eagle

The American eagle, sometimes known as the bald eagle, is no more bereft of hirsute adornment than the Seven Sutherland Sisters. He merely has white feathers on his head which makes him look bald from a distance. The American eagle has many characteristics which make him a particularly fitting national bird. In the first place, he is the only eagle peculiar to this country. Then, too, the American eagle is not known to leave our continent except to the nearby Siberian coast opposite Alaska.

Chewing gum, pencils, rubber bands, toothpicks, pipstems and other things are restful and useful forms of exercise for office workers. Prof. H. L. Grandmother's Home Scene of Cheryl Smith's Wedding Saturday Eve.

The farm home of her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Smart, where her mother, nee Pauline Smart, was married 22 years ago last June 11, was the setting in which Miss Cheryl Smith spoke the vows that made her the bride of John F. Weiss, of Oak Park.

The Rev. J. E. Charles, rector of St. Ignatius' Episcopal church, officiated at the 7 o'clock Saturday evening ceremony, standing before a bank of autumn leaves which was flanked with large baskets of chrysanthemums.

With her gown of blue taffeta, the bride wore a matching halo turban from which fell a shoulder-length bluish veil, also in blue. White roses and white pompons were combined in her arm bouquet.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Genevieve Danbe of Lake Villa, wore a similar gown of rose-colored taffeta, with a bouquet of rose-colored and white flowers.

Charles W. Smith, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom.

Chrysanthemums and autumn leaves decorated the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Smith, at Channel Lake, where a reception for 100 guests was held later in the evening.

The bride, who is a graduate of Antioch Township High school and of last June's class at the St. Therese hospital school of nurses' training, has been honored at a number of parties during recent weeks. Among them were showers given by the nurses of St. Therese's hospital, in Waukegan; by Mrs. Lloyd Murrie, at Lake Marie; Mrs. Lester Osmond, Sr., in Antioch; Miss Danbe and Mrs. Lester Osmond, Jr., at Lake Villa.

She and her bridegroom will be at home to their friends at their apartment on Austin avenue, Oak Park, in the near future.

Mr. Weiss is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Weiss, Oak Park. He was graduated from the high school there, and is now a retail meat dealer in that town.

Risch-Clark

United in marriage at a quiet ceremony in Richmond Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock were Miss Bernice Risch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Risch, of Antioch, and Arland Clark, Richmond.

A supper at the Risch home followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark plan to make their home in Woodstock, where Mr. Clark is employed in the Montgomery Ward store.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 20.

The Golden Text was, "Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed; and make you a new heart and a new spirit; for why will ye die, O house of Israel?" (Ezekiel 18:31).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "For thus saith the Lord God, the Holy One of Israel: In returning and rest shall ye be saved; in quietness and in confidence shall be your strength; and ye would not. And therefore will the Lord wait, that he may be gracious unto you, and therefore will he be exalted, that he may have mercy upon you: for the Lord is a God of judgment: blessed are all they that wait for him" (Isaiah 30:15-18).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals move onward towards good or evil as time elides on. If mortals are not progressive, past failures will be repeated until all wrong work is effaced or rectified. If at present satisfied with wrongdoing, we must learn to loathe it. If at present content with idleness, we must become dissatisfied with it" (p. 240).

Wilmot O. E. S. Has Anniversary Oct. 25

Wednesday, Oct. 25, the Wilmot Order of Eastern Star celebrated its silver anniversary. An elaborate program was arranged for the evening with the Past Matrons and Past Patrons in charge of the work. Mrs. Ethel Roepke as Past Matron and Elmer Louth as Past Patron were in charge of the presentation of colors. Only two of the six living charter members were present, they being Mrs. Rose Bassett of Antioch, who read a history of the chapter, and Mrs. Roy Murdock of Bristol. Absent through illness were Mrs. James Owen, Wilmot, and Mrs. Peter Tennes of Genoa City. Telegrams were received from Mrs. Mary Wright of New York City and Mrs. Clara Morgan of Chicago.

This chapter was a branch of the Genoa City chapter and that chapter and the Bristol chapter sent huge baskets of flowers for the occasion. The Past Matrons and Past Patrons presented the present matron, Mrs. Herbert Sarbacker, with a silver plate.

Farm Co-ops

The gross business of farmer-owned purchasing organizations in the United States is estimated at $110,000,000 and the members of 10,750 co-operative organizations market $2,300,000,000 worth of farm products in an average year.

MILK STILL RATES AS PERFECT FOOD

Nutrition Studies Disclose High Vitamin Content.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBAIN

In the last quarter century the field of nutrition has advanced more than in all the previous centuries of mankind. In that advance milk has held its place as the most nearly perfect food. From the point of view of protein and of fat, of mineral salts and of vitamins, it stands supreme. True, milk is somewhat deficient in vitamin C, in vitamin D, and in iron, but these values are easily supplied and no other food gives as much as milk for the money.

If there is any other highly important fact which our studies have revealed, it is that ordinarily we do not consume as much milk as we should, being led frequently by improper advice to other foods not nearly as efficient in human nutrition. Yet one-fifth of the food budget of the average American family is used for milk and milk products.

So important is milk for the human being that the health section of the League of Nations has recently made available a study of this product by a committee with representatives from Denmark, Holland, England, and France. It may surprise many Americans to realize that the milk supply in most foreign countries does not approximate in its general safety the average milk supply of the United States.

In many countries it has been customary to gloss over the unsatisfactory contents of the milk supply with the assurance that the benefits to health resulting from increased consumption will outweigh the danger of drinking milk that is not hygienic. In this country we know that the development of a good milk supply begins back on the farm with the cows and the quality of feed given to the cows.

Farmers Should Study Tractor Operating Cost

Two factors are important in tractor costs. One is the number of hours used, the other, economical loading. The first entails a study of the machine's varied uses, and of the possibility of increasing these uses. The latter necessitates a study of the draft requirement of different implements, and the ways and means of devising tractor hook-ups.

An example will help to make this point clear. A 14-inch moldboard plow at a certain depth will have a draft of 600 pounds. A one-way plow 14 inches wide would require a pull of about 250 pounds, while that width of spike-tooth harrow has a draft of only slightly more than 50 pounds.

Such a variation is true of all field implements and to load a tractor of a certain size economically, the operator must know the approximate draft of each tool.

Tractor engineers and farm management experts agree that each tractor owner should make a study of his machine to determine what will be an economical load, and then eliminate as much as possible the application of hitches with lower draft requirements. Manufacturers of tractors can furnish approximate figures on draft for each machine.

Milk for Diet

Although milk is considered by scientists as nature's "most nearly" perfect food, it can supply the nutritive requirements of a mature body for a long period of time without other supplement. The proof of this is well illustrated in the case of John Floherly, a tailor in Niles, Ohio, whose diet for the past 20 years consisted only of milk. Mr. Floherly recently died at the ripe old age of 75 years. He began the "old milk" diet in 1917 as a result of a stricture of the esophagus, which he contributed to an overdose of serum in inoculation during the war. From 1917 until his death he drank only a quart of milk a day.

Farm Facts

Each year about $150,000,000 worth of fuel comes from farm woodlands throughout the United States.

With a radio ownership of 69 per cent, farm families trail city cousins by 13 per cent, but farmers listen more, a recent survey of 14,000 rural families revealed.

A good cow under the most favorable conditions is able to consume about 150 pounds of green pasture herbage in a day. This task is done with a "mowing" apparatus about three inches wide.

Good crop rotations protect the soil, provide enough roughage for live stock, supply grain, distribute labor requirements, provide several sources of income, and assure a fair annual income unless uncontrollable economic conditions make this impossible.

Tropical Products Need Well-Regulated Storage

Warm-natured fruits and vegetables from the tropics are more likely to break down under storage than is too cold than products of the more temperate zones. Some of the tropical products, particularly bananas, pineapples, mangoes, and avocados, lose flavor and texture when kept in the home refrigerator for several days. If served cold, they should not be chilled until immediately before serving.

Research by federal bureau of plant industry scientists shows that many products have a "critical storage temperature" below which injury is likely to result although this temperature may be several degrees above freezing. The low temperature damage may show up in many ways—in appearance, flavor, and texture; in chemical composition; and in susceptibility to decay from storage.

Most of the produce grown in temperate zones will stand temperatures nearer the freezing point than those from the tropics or those whose original home was in the tropics but are now being grown in the temperate zones. Tomatoes, egg-plants and cucumbers are examples of exceptions. Potatoes held below 40 degrees Fahrenheit for several weeks undergo a chemical change in which the starches turn to sugar rendering them unpalatable.

Stored pears must be removed and ripened at temperatures ranging from 60 degrees to 70 degrees. If held too long, at around 32 degrees some varieties lose their ability to ripen and "go dead."

Constant improvement of storage conditions has prolonged the market life of most perishable products and has helped to retain their "fresh" taste and appearance.

Pre-Historic Man Made

Mammoth Tusk Necklaces

Prehistoric man wanted his wife to look more attractive than nature made her, so he gave her a necklace. He fashioned beads from the tusk of a mammoth, pierced shells and the teeth of elk, fox and bison, and strung them together artistically on threads of animal sinews. Thus he made the first beautiful necklace, probably to celebrate some happy event, such as the arrival of his first-born son.

At La Sequette, near St. Leon-sur-Vézère, Dordogne, four necklaces were excavated by M. Castanet in a rock shelter on his farm. Close to one wall of the shelter was a rock surrounded by flint-piercing tools, fragments of mammoth ivory and perforated animal teeth and shells. Several ivory fragments showed incomplete perforation, suggesting that the work may have been abandoned suddenly. This rock shelter must have served as a prehistoric workshop—a forerunner of the modern swank jewelry shops.

While the National Museum of France, at St. Germain-en-Laye, and other museums possess similar necklaces, none are finer or older than those more recently found. The Aurignacian period which they represent is the earliest period from which beads have been unearthed in western Europe.

Disguise Held Illegal

Michael Poulain, who does remarkable stunts as a "woman acrobat," while dressed elaborately in feminine attire, was surprised to find that he could not collect in a hotel suit against a Paris magazine. He appeared in court in a woman's hat, and wore a black satin frock under an astrakhan coat. The court agreed with the magazine's counsel that it was scandalous for a man to go into court in a woman's clothes and turned down the action. The proceedings brought out the fact that police regulations strictly prohibit any one from appearing in a disguise in public places without a permit, except at certain festival times.

Towers of Glass

The prophecy that tall towers of glass would be built to glorify modern civilization, made centuries ago by visionaries, seems about to become a reality. Glass technicians recently announced the development of a structural material called glastone which is made by integrating colorful flat glass with lightweight concrete, forming a masonry unit for load-bearing walls which can be utilized to any desired height.

Plate Lunch

Milo, an athlete of ancient Greece, is said to have killed an ox with a blow of his fist and then consumed it. He was many times a victor at the Olympic and Pythian games and was noted for his unusual feats. Finding a tree partially split with a wedge, he attempted to rend it asunder, was caught by the hand and devoured by wolves.

Origin of Finland

Natives of Finland for years have suffered from racial theories that classed them with what were called "Asiatic hordes," which are said to have invaded Europe with the Huns. No one talks that way today who knows that the Finns have been a part of western Europe for as long as most other peoples that we know about.

Antioch windows this week wore that "frosted" look resulting from super-imposed soap. The designs for the most part seem aimless and bear little indication of budding artistry—perhaps because speed seemed more of a requisite. Which reminds us that some eastern city or other each year holds a Halloween contest in which a committee of leading citizens goes around and passes judgment on the best window-pictures—with prizes to the winners.

Harold (Strong Man) Gaston, on being asked how he captured one juvenile soapster, allowed himself to be quoted as follows: "Well, I just opened the door and said, 'Hey You, come here!'"

The voice of command.
Second, only to "J. B." Roynour's ability to keep alive and vigorous the appeal of the spoken drama is his touch in composing those brief but pungent notes he appends to his publicity stories. We picked one up off the boss' desk the other day and burned our fingers on it. Of course we don't (often) read other people's letters, but a line in that one kind of stuck in our mind. It went something like this—"I am just a poor old fellow, trying to get along."

The younger generation got at this Halloween business early this year—at least a week earlier than usual. Others were wondering about this, and now comes Lottie Craft with the low-down. The kids, according to Lottie, just got their days confused, thinking how F. D. R. had moved Thanksgiving day forward a few notches and they thought that also would apply to Halloween. Anyway, it gave them seven more days to raise the dickens around here.

When some of the past week's depredations passed beyond the Halloween prank stage some of our sober-minded citizens wondered why village officials took no action. Could it be that some of our officials were harking back in memory to their own youthful days?

Now that swing and jitterbugging are getting a bit passe, we wonder what's gonna be next. And if onlookers will still have to wear shin pads in order to be on the safe side.

There were a few flakes of snow coming down Tuesday a. m. but not enough to go coasting in. Just a preview, you might.

Somebody asked us the other day who wrote the Observer. We don't write it—it just accumulates.

Fatherly Advice

Professing himself ready to fight as his father did 21 years ago, Alvin C. York Jr. wants to join the navy. Sergeant York, who captured a German machine gun company single-handed during the World war, is showing his old tunic to Junior. The sergeant thinks the boy's place is in the infantry, however. "The time to hit," young York declared, "is while the hitler's good."

Attend Meeting Held By County 8 et 40 Salon

Mrs. William Ward, L. J. Zimmerman, Paul Chase, and William Phillips of Antioch attended the monthly meeting of Lake County Salon No. 191, Eight et Forty, held last evening at the home of Partner McGaughey, 614 N. Genesee st., Waukegan, with 16 members in attendance. The child welfare chairman, Mrs. William Whyte, reported sending birthday cards to the children whose birthdays occurred in October and are hospitalized at the National Jewish hospital in Denver. She also reported sending clothing to the orphan sponsored by the Salon at the Lake Bluff orphanage.

As in other years the salon will participate in the annual Christmas party for the World War orphans in Lake county, sponsored by the American Legion, American Legion auxiliary and Forty and Eight.

On November 21 the salon will join with the Parent-Teachers organizations of Waukegan and North Chicago to assist in the sale of tickets for the Milk Fund Boxing bouts to be held at the high school in Waukegan. Between now and the first of December the partners will assist Miss Orpha White in stuffing the envelopes for the T. B. Seal mailing.

It was voted to contribute to the Iron Lung fund drive now being conducted in Lake county as well as to purchase a Red Cross membership.

The Eight et Forty will be represented at the annual Armistice Day program to be held at the Waukegan Township high school on Sunday, Nov. 5, by its chapeau, Mrs. J. C. Harmon.

After the business meeting cards formed the diversion of the evening, with honors going to Mmes. Carson Neville, Mancel Talcott and William Jacobs.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mmes. George McGaughey and J. C. Harmon.

Belligerents Fight for Favor Of European Neutral States; 'Flint' Incident Still Simmers

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE WAR IN BRIEF

RIBBENTROP

Unorthodox warfare continued on the western front, original positions being assumed after Nazis forced the French to relinquish early gains. Though 1,500,000 German troops were massed at the Siegfried line, any offensive must come immediately or not until next spring. Three solid days of rainfall left trenches half-filled with water and stranded the highly touted mechanized artillery. Then came snow and sleet. Diplomatic activity continued at top speed, for overshadowing the actual war, Turkey's new pact with Britain to guarantee the eastern Mediterranean was the source of all efforts, which resolved into a frantic scurrying among belligerents to line up neutrals. At Danzig, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop furnished diversion by jacking at British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain for "broaking promises." He also tried to drive a wedge between the allies by wooing France. Two days later Chamberlain replied just as scornfully. In the Balkans, Britain encouraged Turkish formation of a neutral bloc, using what some observers called poor strategy by apparently neglecting to consult Italy. While the Reich wooed Rumania, Turkey and Hungary by threats, Britain was more subtle. Under consideration at London were trade pacts to assure the neutrality of Sweden, Netherlands, Finland, Latvia, Turkey and Russia. To soothe the latter nation, Chamberlain agreed that Dictator Josef Stalin's invasion of Poland had been necessary for protection against German aggression.

Russia continued negotiations with Finland, but their nature remained mysterious. Finnish Foreign Minister Eljas Erko called "just as unfounded as all others" the latest report that Russia had demanded concessions in the Gulf of Finland, a friendship policy between the Kremlin and Finland, and destruction of all fortifications in the strategic Aaland islands. Some observers believed Russian demands on Finland were increased to offset the Soviet's diplomatic defeat in Turkey. But it remained unlikely that Russia would invade Finland.

CHAMBERLAIN

So was he. He increased to offset the Soviet's diplomatic defeat in Turkey. But it remained unlikely that Russia would invade Finland.

MARINE: 'Flint' Saga

German seizure of the 5,000-ton U. S. S. City of Flint bid fair to affect world commerce far more than all the 100-odd vessels which bombs and torpedoes have sent to the bottom since November 1. Carrying contraband to Britain, the Flint was seized by Germany in mid-Atlantic, taken first to Norway and then to Murmansk, Russia, where her American crew was reported safe. But the Soviet indicated Germany would get the ship, thereby relieving Joseph Stalin of bickering with the U. S. Most observers agreed the Reich was justified in seizing sult: A "gentleman's agreement" to speed inspection.

Obviously the Flint incident put Russia on a spot. By releasing her to the American crew, Russia would snub an erstwhile ally, Germany. As it was, the Soviet incurred U. S. skepticism. If Russia again offers haven to a neutral vessel seized by Germany, the Kremlin might well be asked to tell how she stands in 1939's war.

There was a strong hint of her position in another Flint aftermath. At Moscow, British Ambassador Sir William Seeds was given a note rejecting Soviet recognition of Britain's war contraband list because it violates international law and impairs neutral rights. Incredulous at such effrontery, a London spokesman blurted: "Fantastic!"

CONGRESS: Victory, Then What?

If an isolationist filibuster was really delaying action on the neutrality bill, the City of Flint incident (See MARINE) was enough to end it. Next day the senate agreed to allow each speaker 45 minutes for the bill and an extra 45 minutes for each amendment. Lashed by acid-tongued John Nance Garner, who rebuked the senate for being a "horse-and-buggy outfit," battling solons called a truce to approve amendments (1) banning 90-day credits to either belligerent nations or their residents and (2) lifting shipping restrictions against American boats in the Pacific (except armament). Bermuda, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Tasmanian sea and Capetown. Rejected was an amendment to make President Roosevelt sole judge of the necessity for invoking neutrality. There was good chance another amendment would pass: To forbid any belligerent ship from flying the U. S. flag as defense against a foe.

As early as two days before the senate's final vote, Isolationists Borah and Nye conceded administration forces a two-thirds victory. But they were more hopeful about the house, where neutrality would run against pretty strong opposition. An attempt to invoke parliamentary rules (preventing amendments to the senate bill) was conceded little chance by argumentative representatives.

PEOPLE: Dies Coup

At Washington, Texas' Red-baiting Rep. Martin Dies achieved publicity with his list of 563 U. S. employees who are on a "membership list" of the pinkish American League for Peace and Democracy. In the house an argument brewed over the suggestion by Washington's Rep. John Coffee that Dies' un-Americanism committee be disowned for insinuating that all 563 federal employees were Communists.

At Phoenix, Ariz., the state insane hospital announced Winnie Judith Judd, notorious trunk slayer of 1931, had escaped leaving a note: "I'm only going to see my father and my husband . . ."

BUSINESS:

Big Stick

At South Bend, Ind., the U. S. anti-trust suit against General Motors (for allegedly forcing dealers to use G. M. A. C. financing) went to the jury. In Washington three other prominent anti-trust actions were in the mill: (1) against the American Medical association, being appealed once more; (2) against Chicago area milk dealers, being weighed in the Supreme court; (3) against building trades, which may mushroom into a nation-wide probe. A fourth potential case centered against 68 life insurance companies producing 90 per cent of all ordinary life contracts, a situation frowned on by the securities exchange commission and the senate's temporary national economic committee. A fifth case, against certain motion picture interests, was blossoming in the West.

Against this background Trust Buster Thurman Arnold popped a new issue: In District of Columbia federal court the justice department filed complaints charging the Association of American Railroads and 239 individual roads with violating the Sherman act. The charge: That member roads refused to co-operate with motor carriers in hauling freight and passengers.

Cause for action was an A. A. R. resolution of June 25, 1937, which declared public interest would be served "if railroads refrained from establishing with motor carriers through routes or joint rates or fares which invade territory not served by such railroad and which is already served by one or more other railroads."

In Washington, A. A. R.'s President J. J. Peley "welcomed the action in order that there may be once and for all . . . determined to what extent the railroads are permitted . . . to declare sound policies consistent with the public interest."

WHITE HOUSE: Boys Stay Home

Addressing the New York Herald Tribune forum on current events, President Roosevelt added his thoughts on America's responsibility in Europe's war. He excoriated "orators, commentators and others beating their breasts and proclaiming against sending the boys of American mothers to fight."

Commented he: "Such statements constitute one of the worst fakes in current history. It is a deliberate setting up of an imaginary bogeyman. The simple truth is that no person in any responsible place . . . has ever suggested . . . the remotest possibility of sending the boys of American mothers to fight on the battlefields of Europe."

THE REICH BREAKS LOOSE

Nazi raiders have broken Britain's North sea blockade to raid Atlantic shipping, and Britain cannot hunt them down without weakening her home defenses. Evidence of raiding: British liner Stenagat picked up torpedo victims at (1), was then torpedoed herself (2), probably by the Deutschland, which proceeded north to capture the U. S. S. City of Flint (3) and sail her to Tromsø, Norway, (4) where Stenagat's passengers were dumped. City of Flint was then taken to Murmansk, Russia (5). In the heavily protected North sea (6) a convoyed French steamer was sunk, while three British vessels went down 30 miles off Gibraltar (7). A French sub reported driving five Nazi raiders to sea (8).

the Flint, but few expected his next bold move. Berlin ordered a prize court hearing to determine whether the boat, crew or cargo should be freed.

Britain began crowing prematurely about her "speedy" inspection of neutral vessels by contrast with German blundering. U. S. skippers thereupon complained to Washington that Britain's contraband control was actually pretty bad, often taking 18 days to clear a boat. Re-

45 YEARS AGO
In the Antioch News Files.
Oct. 25, 1894

A reporter of the NEWS took a look through J. E. Perkins' residence on Lake avenue, now nearly completed. Entering the building through a neat vestibule, you first enter the parlor, 12 by 18 feet in size, which fronts to the south; the next room is the family bed chamber, 12x15, and fronts west; passing through the bathroom, 4x10, you enter the kitchen, 12x12 facing east, which is a model of convenience, being supplied with large cupboards, flour bins, linen and china closets, cistern pump, etc. Adjoining the kitchen on the south is the dining room, 14 x 15, with hardwood floor. Passing upstairs we found three very fine sleeping rooms, 12x15, 14x15 and 12x15 feet, respectively, all having large closets attached to them. Under the house is as fine a cemented cellar as one can find anywhere, 14x18 feet.

All the rooms are furnished in butter-nut, and present a very fine appearance. The crowning feature of the interior arrangement is the ventilation, which is perfect. Taken all together, Mr. and Mrs. Perkins have a home to be proud of. They expect to occupy it in about three weeks.

A meeting was held at the Town Hall Tuesday evening to decide on the establishment of a creamery here. For some reason, the farmers did not favor the project, and action was deferred for the present.

Ed Smith, of Lake Villa, was a pleasant caller at our office Monday. Ed is quite a talker, has been known to keep time with a windmill and come out ahead in the contest. He is particularly at home on stories of shooting ducks, and occupies with the feathery tribe much the same position that Davey Crockett occupied with the coons.

W. F. Docker, who was to sing at the Republican rally at Highland Park Monday night, missed the train at South Waukegan and walked the eleven miles, reaching there in time to sing.

30 YEARS AGO
Oct. 28, 1909

Showing marvelous presence of mind in the face of approaching death, Mrs. Charles Chester Allen, a well known Kenosha society woman, Sunday saved the lives of herself and little one by tearing off her red automobile veil and flagging a North Western passenger train that was thundering down on the Allen motor car, stalled on the tracks at a crossing near that place. The engineer saw the signal just in time and, throwing on the emergency brakes, brought the train to a standstill a few feet from the auto.

Will Van Patten on Wednesday of this week purchased a A. Zweible, Jr., of Burlington, a Red runabout automobile, with which he expects to deliver the mail to patrons on rural route in double-quick time. Antioch is the first town in Lake county to have one of its routes covered by auto, and Route one is the first to receive its service.

The jewelry store formerly occupied by William Keulman has been moved to the rear of the lot and a new brick structure is being erected to take its place. Mr. Keulman has temporarily located his stock of jewelry in a part of T. A. Somerville's bakery.

Gid Thayer came back from Chelek, Wis., where John Burke, former owner of the Antioch News, resides, and is now claiming that while in the Wisconsin village he shot four bears. He brings a bear's foot as proof, and declares he shot one of the bears right behind the Burke residence.

15 YEARS AGO

Tuesday the people cast their vote for president for the next four years. At present the outlook looks like a close race between Coolidge and La Follette.

One man, Harry Tinnerman, is dead, and his co-worker, Fritz Redland, is in a dying condition following an explosion in the coning mill of the Hercules Powder company at Pleasant Prairie, Wis. The explosion was much less severe than that of 1911.

GRASS LAKE, ILL. — "Honk! Honk! Honk!" No—they're not geese—they're automobiles, flashing their searching lights against the midnight west, rattling over the Grass Lake road. All night long they come—carrying their burdens of excited hunters and outdoor paraphernalia.

Our guide accosts a fellow who is setting two wooden ducks to his left. He is not over thirty feet away.

"Hey," says Lew. "Wanta get shot?"

"Beg your pardon," replied the gunner, "When did you buy this lake?" Splash goes the third decoy into the water.

But behind him, some ten feet in the grass, a fellow who has been sleeping and waiting all night for his stand, pokes his head over the gunwale. "Bang!" A burst of flame from his boat.

"Hey!" yells the decoy setter.

"Ain't sunrise yet—wacha shooting at?"

"Nothin'," replies the sleepy head. "Just kicked my gun off. My toe got caught in the trigger." Evidently this is enough for the decoy setter. He picks up his decoy and silently fades away in the gloom.

Railways for Skiers

In no place in the world are there so many skiing possibilities as in Switzerland, where mountain railways take care of the uphill grind. St. Moritz alone has four such railways.

Records Show Chilly Weather For Six Months in Half of U. S.

This map, prepared from weather bureau records, shows how chilly temperatures encroach upon the United States from Canada as early as September, travel across the continent to Maine, and then sweep southward at a speed of approximately 125 miles a week. When the winter "deadline" falls at or below your region, it's time to put up storm sash, clean the heating unit, check the coal supply, put anti-freeze in the car radiator and shake the molts out of your overcoat.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—This is the first day of winter somewhere, despite what your calendar says. And the long cold spell is traveling toward you at the speed of 125 miles a week.

The calendar says it's winter from December 21 to March 21, but the season when it is necessary to heat the house for comfort extends through half the year in more than half the area of the United States, according to records of the Weather Bureau.

"Storm-sash weather" enters this country in the Rocky Mountain region in October and travels eastward via the northern route across Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota and Upper Michigan to invade the New England states. Then it sweeps southward at approximately 125 miles a week until December. In many sections the home fires must be kept burning until June.

Cold waves cost Americans hundreds of millions of dollars for warm clothing, fuel, snow removal, anti-freeze solutions and other items which would not be needed if "something could be done about" the weather. The only one among these winter expense items that can be reduced appreciably by planning ahead, according to heating experts, is the fuel bill.

Experiments conducted by heating and ventilating engineers at the University of Illinois and University of Wisconsin demonstrated that the cost of heating a residence can be reduced 20 to 30 per cent through "window conditioning," which means any modern form of double glazing, either storm sash or pre-fit double windows. Reports of consumers in a national survey showed fuel savings ranging from $15 to $75 per year with this type of home insulation.

Weather investigators who study tree rings and sun spots to learn about the coming winter's prospects claim that the end of a 90-year "warm" cycle has been reached and that "old fashioned" winters are due for a comeback.

AMUSEMENTS

"Tobacco Road" Sets Broadway Run Record

Although playwrights are proverbially optimistic, it is unlikely that Jack Kirkland, on the night of Dec. 4, 1933 when his play of the Georgia share-croppers, "Tobacco Road," had its premiere, expected that it would be running on Broadway late in 1939. Nor is it likely that Erskine Caldwell, on whose novel it is based, thought that he still would be drawing royalties today from the dramatization. Nevertheless "Tobacco Road," on November 18, will overtake the all-time Broadway run record of 2532 performances held by "Abie's Irish Rose" while the only touring company, headed by John Barton, which comes to the Kenosha Theatre, Kenosha, next Thursday, Nov. 9, for two performances, matinee and night, holds a record of performances in 240 cities in 40 states.

The enduring quality of "Tobacco Road" is believed to lie in the honesty of its writing and the authenticity of its picture of life among the penniless share-croppers of Georgia. These people know only sex and a distorted religion and their interest lies in the major incidents of daily routine rather than in the major events of marriage and death. They are a casual and callous people roused from their contented apathy only by the announcement of Captain Tim, the landowner's son, that they must leave the land to which they cling with fanatical devotion.

Highlights in the story include the flight of Pearl, the 12 year old child wife; the marriage of the middle-aged evangelist, Sister Bessie, and the 16 year old Duke; the death of Ada under the wheels of the new automobile; and the crumbling of the hopes of Jeeter Lester, the central character, for a return of prosperity to his beloved land. John Barton, noted dramatic star, heads the cast of the company while his associate artists include such well-known Broadway players as Sara Perry, Pitt Herbert, Shiela Brent, Eugenia Wilson, Dick Lee, Lillian Ardel, Edgar Hinton, Chester Root and Walter Ayers. This is announced as the farewell tour of the famous stage play.

Rotinour Players Draw Thursday Night Crowds

"That the 'spoken drama' is in demand is clearly shown by the crowds attending the J. B. Rotinour Players' shows every Thursday evening on the stage of the Crystal theatre.

This evening's offering will be "No Wedding Bells," a pastoral drama with an abundance of comedy.

"When the Cat's Away," a rollicking comedy involving a lovable old couple, two young daughters and four sons, will be a special offering next Thursday, "J. B." Rotinour announces that he has only recently leased this play, and assures comedy addicts that it is one of the latest.

The vaudeville program will be introduced by the Vernums, Jimmy Parsons and his saxophone, and Miss Townsend and the quartet will give specialties.

Good news for friends of Jimmy LeRoy is word that he has returned to the Rotinour players to appear in principal comedy parts.

Free merchant tickets may be secured from concerns listed in an advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue.
